RIGHT THAT FILM
Every day and night on your
tooth with NYAL TOOTH PASTE.
The film that clings to
the teeth here.
You feel that coat clinging to your teeth? That's film; it discolors teeth, it is the basis of tartar.
It causes food to ferment, forms ac-
cides, causes teeth to decay.
It is the chief cause of pyorrhea.
That's why NYAL's Tooth Paste
is the best. Brush today, and start to get good teeth. You will be in after years.

VEST POCKET KODAK.
Small, easy to carry in your pocket, ready for any picture-taking occasion. Makes good pictures.
$3.00 now. All outdoors invites you to Kodak.

HAIR HEALTH.
Lack of tone or diseased condition of the scalp is a ways a threat to hair. NYAL'S HAIR-TONE used regularly will increase the lustre and softness of the hair, stops falling hair, cures dan-drel. Try it. 50c $1.00 and bottles larger.

Here for your gifts to the children: Books, Fountain Pens
and many other nice gifts to select from.

One of the most suitable Gifts
to make to the High School or college graduates is an EVERSHARP PENCIL.

Whether it is a boy or a girl you can find use for it everywhere and it will be highly appreciated. From $1.00 to $5.00 each.

at Kerville.

Some prominent speakers have been asked to take part in the program
and for discussion of many business matters has been arranged. A number of questions to be discussed include, railroad extension, better stock and dairying and the revision of the "Truck Law".

Among those that have signified intention of being present are:
Louis J. Wortham, T. O. Walter, Cain, W. V. Crawford, Pres.
and B. Jones and Porter Whaley.
The town is requested to send a delegation.

Clevenger's Great Pitching Beats Pearsall.

For the second time in a row Big "Slim" Clevenger pitched our boys to victory against the strong Pearsall team. It was a great day for everybody including Oscar Miller who had to reinforce his hat to hold the many quarters he collected.

The town turned out in a mass and the boys immediately began showing them why they deserve their support.
They got right to work and scored two runs in the first inning when Starnes was hit by a pitched ball and Sham Holloway made one of his famous home runs. It was a tremendous drive and started everyone roaring with delight.

We made two more in the second and one more in the third and called it a days work. Although it was enough to win the game, we barely pulled thru.

Pearsall fought gamely and scored one in the fourth and three in the eighth due to some loose fielding but Big "Slim" tightened up and held them safe. He pitched wonderful ball and deserves all credit due him. He was invincible in the pinches and when a hit meant a run, held the evening in check and pulled thru safely. He struck out eleven men and not one reached first on a base on balls.

Here's hoping he keeps up the good work and helps to put our team on the top, where it belongs.

THE GAME BY INNINGS.

FIRST INNING:

Pearsall—Kraft struck out. Shelton popped to Taylor. Little grounded out. Beal to Taylor. No runs. No

DAVIS-FAGAN.

Is it possible for a singer to sing a duet with herself?

Can a living voice and the same voice reproduced on an instrument be so identical in tone quality that they cannot be distinguished, one from the other?

Has science achieved a triumph that marks the dawn of a new day in the art of music?

These are some of the questions—
questions in which every person of culture must take a keen interest—that will be answered at the Recital to be given at the Auditorium on Saturday evening May 21st. Invitations to this affair in which Helen Davis, the celebrated mezzo-soprano, and Sibyl Sanderson Fagan, whistler, will appear,
have been received by many prominent musicians of this city, and interest in the coming affair seems to be keen in musical circles. The appearance of these celebrated artists, of course, would be sufficient to arouse the enthusiasm of music lovers here, but the fact that they will lend their superb
art to the laudable work of revealing conclusively that the marvelous achievement of the Re-Creation of musical sound has been attained, adds immeasurable interest to the occasion.

In the coming recital, the artists
will sing and whistle in comparison with their art as Re-Created by the New Edison, to enable the audience to judge whether or not the living performance can be made to live forever.
The audience will try to pick the two golden threads of time apart, to say which one lives for the moment and which one has been made immortal.
Can it be done? Cards of admittance can be secured from C. R. Gaines if you wish to hear the question answered.

English-Gaines.

Sergeant Joe English of Kelley
Field, San Antonio, and Miss Una Gaines of Hondo, were married last Saturday in San Antonio.

While Miss Una's friends have had suspicions for some time, she finally gave them the slip and was married before they were any the wiser. Even her parents and other immediate relatives were also given the slip. They went to San Antonio Sunday expecting to be present at the wedding, and were somewhat surprised to learn on their arrival that Miss Una had also presented them with a new relative.

The bride is the winsome daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Gaines, is a native of Hondo, and grew to lovely young womanhood here, and was greatly esteemed by all who knew her.

The groom, we believe, is in the aviation branch of the army. While he is practically unknown in Hondo, the fact of his being in the aviation service stamps him as a young man of sterling worth. No other kind is accepted in that branch of the service.

That the fondest anticipations of the happy young couple for a long and joyous wedded life may be more than realized is the wish of all Miss Una's
friends in Hondo.

Fishing was the past time of the party, and according to Sheriff Bader the camp was abundantly supplied with the fruits of the hook and line, notwithstanding all the "big ones" got away.

Sheriff Bader, as the head of the party, was unanimously elected to the three most important positions in outings of this character, viz: water-carrier, fire-builder and fish-cleaner. We understand that it was owing to his duties becoming somewhat monotonous that made him insist on coming home. We understand that the remainder of the party would have been content to remain in camp all summer.

TYSON-NEWTON

Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conway Tyson, Maysfield, Texas, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marguerite Tyson and Mr. Guy Newton.

The ceremony, which was witnessed by relatives and a few intimate friends was performed by Rev. C. E. Newton, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Clifton, Texas, and a brother of the groom.

Miss Lorena Ruby of Cameron played the wedding march.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Newton left for Hondo, Texas, where Mr. Newton is Principal of the Hondo school.

The bride is one of Maysfield's fairest daughters and possesses the most womanly traits.

The groom is a son of the late Rev. J. K. P. Newton, who was for many years the much beloved pastor of the Maysfield Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Newton who still lives in that little city. He is a young man worthy of his noble heritage.

Both of these young people enjoy the love and esteem of the entire community and the best wishes are entertained for their future.

Those from Cameron who attended the wedding were: Mesdames C. H. Ruby, W. A. Bonds, Misses Lorena Ruby, Jennie Tyson and Helen Mayes. Cameron Enterprise.

Information to the effect that the well of the Medina Oil Development Co. would be "shot" at the depth of 450 feet caused quite a number of people to be on hand to witness the operation at 4:00 o'clock Monday afternoon. They were disappointed, however, as the man engaged to "shoot" the well directed some additional work be done before placing the charge, consequently the "shooting" was postponed until 5:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when another crowd was present.

When the 100-pound charge of dynamite was set off and the derrick commenced dancing a jig, and mud and rocks were flying upward, and Old Mother Earth was in convulsions, we understand all the sprinting records of the world were shattered by some of the spectators. However, when things quieted down, the stampeded crowd again assembled around the well and a vigorous rubbing of the hair on their heads enabled them to again get it in condition to put their hats on. No one was hurt. While it will probably be several days before the actual results of the shot will be positively known, it is the opinion of experienced oil men that the well will come in as a fair producer.

Postmaster M. A. Chancey is off on a well-earned vacation. He left Friday, in company with Mrs. Dayhoff, on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Rollins, at Greenville, Texas. He purposes being absent about ten days.

Mr. Chancey has been closely confined since assuming the duties of postmaster, and no one begrudges him a few days respite from his arduous duties.

Not only will he enjoy his brief holiday but he will be better qualified to render more efficient service on his return. In answering his application for a few days absence the post office officials not only promptly and cheerfully granted his request but notified him he could take thirty days off if he so desired. Miss Ruth Chancey will assist in the post office during her father's absence.

HE COULDN'T DO FULL DAY'S WORK.

Oklahoma Man Is On The Job Every Day And Feels Just Fine Since Taking Tanlac.

"At the time I got Tanlac three years ago I hadn't been able to put in a full day's work for two years; but the medicine fixed me up to where I felt fine and I've not lost a day's work on account of ill-health since," said Charles Hamblen, well-known farmer residing on R. F. D. No. 1, Keefeton, Okla.

"About five years ago my system got out of order and I went down in health until I was so weak I could hardly stand up. As for work, I was scarcely able to do anything. I had no appetite and what little I did eat seemed to do me no good, and I had headaches constantly. I was also troubled with a persistent cough, and it seemed that my old-time strength and energy were gone for good."

"But it didn't take Tanlac but a little while to straighten me out and I was soon full of new life and energy. Ever since then I've been praising Tanlac, and I'm glad to give this statement for what it may be worth to others. Tanlac is the best medicine I ever saw or heard of."

Tanlac is sold in Hondo by W. H. Windrow; in Castrovilla by Joseph Courand & Co.; and in Dunlap by Louis A. Baby; and by all leading druggists.

MISS BRUCKS HONORS SENIORS.

Miss Jo Brucks was hostess to the Senior Class Friday, May 6, at a theater party. The guests assembled at the home of the hostess at eight o'clock, and were then escorted to the "Star," where seats had been reserved. They were tastefully marked off with the class colors, gold and white.

After the show Miss Brucks led the guests to Parker's, where delightful refreshments of cream and cake were served. The party was then taken back home where they were entertained with many piano selections by Mrs. G. T. Newton and the girls of the Senior Class.

Between eleven and twelve the following bade Miss Brucks farewell, commenting her as a hostess: Misses Gaines, Earnest, Green, Van Fleet,
Newton, Leinweber; Mr. and Mrs.
Newton; Messrs. Howell, Metzger
and Windrow.

JUNIORS BID SENIORS FAREWELL.

Saturday, May 7, the Seniors were entertained by the Juniors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Fly. The reception room was tastefully decorated in blue and white, the High School
colors, the parlor in gold and white,
the Senior colors, and the dining room
in the Junior colors, green and white.

The guests arrived between eight and nine o'clock, and after a short conversation and a few selections on the piano, games of "42" and Bunco were begun. Two immense bowls of punch stood in the green and white room
throughout the evening.

Toward the close of the evening
delectable refreshments of ice-cream,
molded in rosette shape, and Angel food cake were served. Artistic plate favors of miniature diplomas, tied with gold and white ribbon, and green
"dunce caps" were placed near each guest.

Conversation and piano selections
again reigned for an hour or so, and then the guests left wishing the Juniors much success. Those present were:

SENIORS—Lucille Newton, Sadie Earnest, Ethel Hutzler, Willa Mae Gaines, Erna Leinweber, Altha Van Fleet,
Ruth Windrow, Milton Batot, Randolph
Metzger, George Windrow.

JUNIORS—Clara Buss, Jessie Blocker,
Lorraine Heath, Ina King, Elizabeth
Fly, Evelyn Wilson, V. H. Blocker,
Earl Lacy, Henry Windrow.

GUESTS: Leonard Fohn, Will Earnest Newton, Tony Windrow, Marion Davis, Albert Hutzler, Mr. and Mrs.
J. G. Newton, Misses Black and Crawford, and Supt. J. D. Howell.

FISH AND SOPHS ON GOOD TERMS.

The banks of the Medina River were the scenes of frolic and fun when the Sophs and Fish picniced Saturday.
Somewhat surprising that they could remain in peace with each other for a whole day, is it not?

The morning hours were spent in boat-riding, swimming, and in exploring the surrounding country. The last hour before noon was spent in hearty eating which all enjoyed immensely.

Immediately after dinner the fun
continued. To much had been eaten to take a second plunge, so they motored to the "city" of Lacoste.
On returning from the drive everyone
prepared to take a dip in the river.
In about an hour "kodak" was the king of the party.

The call for supper brought the bunch together again, and for a time
kids were scrambling from every direction to the beautifully set cloth.
When all were seated everyone dived
in and came out more than satisfied.

The hour of six saw everyone preparing for the home trip. (The picnic
was enjoyed especially by the Fish, because of the honor of going with such a crowd.)

DANGERS OF A COLD

Hondo People Do Well to Heed
Them.

Many bad cases of kidney trouble result from a cold or chill. Congested kidneys fall behind in filtering the poison-laden blood and back ache, headache, dizziness and disordered kidney action follow. Don't neglect a cold.
Use Doan's Kidney Pills at the first sign of kidney trouble. Follow this Hondo resident's example.

Mrs. Heyo Schweers gave the following statement May 28, 1915: "I had an attack of kidney trouble some years ago. My kidneys acted irregularly and caused me annoyance, and there were other ailments arising from disordered kidneys. I believe the trouble was brought on from a cold which settled in my kidneys. I purchased Doan's Kidney Pills at Windrow's Drug Store and just a short use corrected the trouble which has never returned."

On May 3, 1919, Mrs. Schweers said:
"I have had no occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills since they cured me four years ago. My back is now strong and my kidneys act as regular as ever."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs.
Schweers had. Foster-Milburn Co.,

SEVENTH GRADE PICNICS

About eight-thirty last Saturday morning the seventh grade assembled on College Square, prepared for a picnic. They left in five cars for Eagle's Bluff, on Poerner's ranch. The first two diversions were swimming, and climbing the bluff. Noon soon came and everyone crowded around the cloth very hungry. After satisfying their appetites, much enjoyment was obtained by playing on the sandy beach. The water claimed the majority of the class about three o'clock,
and then, after eating a light lunch,
they packed up and left the pleasant
grounds for home.

NOT A "TRENCH" OF BAYONETS

True Story of Famous Incident at Verdun, Which French Bravery
Has Made Immortal.

The scaffolding has now been taken down from the monument over the famous "Trench of the Bayonets" at Verdun which President Millerand has inaugurated. But the term "trench" is a misnomer. The true story is this:

Fifty-seven survivors of two Breton
battalions were holding the line there, not in a trench, but in a series of shellholes, nearly regularly spaced and aligned. The men were so packed that when any were wounded they were unable to fall down, while for security
they held their rifles, with fixed bayonets in the air.

During the whole of June 11, 12 and 13, 1916, a terrible artillery duel raged round them. Caught between the French and German barrage fires, one by one the men died, while the bursting shells buried them under waves of torn-up ground. When the scene could be visited all that remained was a line of bayonets protruding from the ground.—Continental Edition of the London Mail.

REALLY NOT SO FLATTERING

Younger Lady's Explanation of Recognition of Old Friend Had a Certain Sting to It.

A cabinet officer said at a dinner,
apropos of certain criticisms on his department:

"Politics—all politics. Nothing, not even woman, is as cruel as politics,
and yet woman can be very cruel."

The secretary then told a story about the cruelty of woman.

"One Easter morning," he said, "two ladies met on the Atlantic City boardwalk with little outcries of surprise
and joy.

"Why, Mame!" said the older lady.
"How flattering this is!"

"Flattering?" said the younger lady, with a perplexed air. "How so?"

"You haven't seen me," said the older lady, "for 17 years—and yet you recognize me, so to speak, right off the bat. That means—I haven't changed so dreadfully, doesn't it?"

"Oh!" she said, "you see, I recognized your bonnet."

DIED—Mrs. Lina Beck, nee Stein, for many years a resident of Haby Settlement, but lately of San Antonio, died at her home there on Saturday. The corpse was brought to Castroville Sunday afternoon and laid to rest at St. Louis Cemetery, Rev. Fa her Heckmann performing the last sad rites. Deceased was happily married to Joseph Beck, who preceded her in death many years ago. This union was blessed with five children, four sons, Louis, George and Edward of San Antonio, and Alfred of Houston, and one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Urbanek of San Antonio. Besides these she is survived by a number of grandchildren and many other near and dear relatives to mourn her loss. A large concourse of mourning relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place. We join in sympathy with the bereaved and grietstricken ones. R. I. P.

Quite a number of our denizens left for San Antonio Monday morning to witness the horse races, but the same did not come off owing to the rain.

EDITORIALS By THE EDITOR.

"Monday morning, fair or bleak, Holds the key to all the week."

THE successful musician must catch and hold the right key. This done, it is an easy task to pour forth melody that will soothe and charm. Just so, if we keep ourselves attuned to the harmonies of right thought and right conduct, we may, in the language of the poet, "make life and that vast forever one grand, sweet song."

WHAT this country needs above all of the many and sundry things needed to restore normalcy and put us back on a safe and sane basis of living is an honest day's work—the giving to society a service commensurate with what you expect by way of compensation. It used to be that men scorned to accept what they had not earned and prided themselves in what they had done, in the results they had achieved and not in how much they had received. Then merit won and efficiency was at its maximum. Not so in these degenerate times! The "golden" rule of too many people now-a-days is "Get all you can for as little service as you can possibly give." The consequence is, efficiency is at a low ebb, production lags and living costs soar. This refers not alone to the clock-watching day laborer. He and the short-weight merchant, the loafing general manager, the confidence game artist, and all of like ilk, are in the same class of moral derelicts. What is needed is a revival in good old-fashioned honesty, and a separation of the goats of inefficiency and time-killing from the sheep of cheerful endeavors and efficient servers. Then indeed will peace and plenty bless the land in abundance.

To those who expected a washing of the hands of this country from the filthy affairs of land-thieving, murdering Europe, as a consequence of the repudiation of Wilsonian meddling by the voters at last fall's election, the announcement must come with sickening disappointment that, through the manipulation of Llyrd George, England's turner of dirty diplomatic tricks, and Charles E. Hughes, Wall Street's man Friday in Harding's cabinet, this country is to send a representative to Europe to "slip into the League of Nations Council through the back door," so to speak. From Wilson's servile subservience to England the people turned to Harding in the belief that he was sincere in his protestation of an American policy of America for Americans, only to awaken too late to a realization that their confidence has been misplaced. Some powerful, unseen force, emanating from somewhere, somehow still pulls the strings and the manikins at Washington still dance. If the cover could be lifted and the sinister influences be exposed that can transform a whining, whimpering pacifist like Wilson—"too proud to fight"—into the blood-eyed, "force-to-the-utmost" beast of war and murder, and charge the dignified, positive American statesman, Harding, into the pliant tool of Llyrd George, we opine there would be an awakening of some considerable magnitude in this erstwhile slumbering land!

SECRETARY of Commerce, Herbert C. Hoover, is authority for the statement that while it costs 30 cents per bushel to ship grain by rail from Missouri to New York the same amount can be shipped by water from Argentina, South America, for ten cents. Manifestly the Central Western wheat farmer can not compete for the Atlantic seaboard trade with his South American competitor in the face of such a difference in transportation costs. Mr. Hoover says that the effect of these high rates will soon be to move our granaries to foreign shores and make this country dependent upon over-seas countries for our food supplies. And there is no doubt but what his conclusion is correct. What is true of wheat is, likewise, doubtless true of meat and hides from South America, wool from Australia, peanuts, rice and eggs from the Orient, and everything else that the rest of the world has to sell to America. A statement recently issued from the poultry experiment station of Missouri says that eggs can be bought in the principal markets of China at the equivalent of six cents of United States money. Transportation for the enormous distance from there to New York is only 4¢ cents per dozen, whereas it costs 4¢ cents per dozen to transport them by freight from Missouri to New York and 6¢ cents by express under refrigeration. There must be a correction of these inequalities, or, as Mr. Hoover says, we will soon have to write our agricultural geography over. A prohibitive tariff, by forcing the consumer to pay extortionate prices, may bolster up these enterprises temporarily, and the administration at Washington is committed to such a policy. But permanent relief can only come through reduced transportation charges. Reduced transportation charges can come only

Fletcherized Farm Facts BY FLETCHER DAVIS

In times of abundant supply, low demand and draggy markets, one should be especially careful of the quality of the products they put on the market. Nothing save that which will secure and maintain the confidence of the buying public in the maturity and soundness of the product should be offered for sale at such time.

Because of the usual strong demand and liberal prices for the first of any crop to go to market; and because of the almost invariable slump in price as soon as the bulk of the harvest begins to move into the channels of trade, there is a very natural desire and strong effort to reach the market early. This is usually the profitable thing to do. But it is unwise to let this desire cause us to rush something immature and improperly prepared upon the market.

As a case in point, we were told, during our career as a Field Agent in the employment of the Farmer's Institute Division of the State Department of Agriculture, of a community that, in its rush one season to be the first on the market with new crop oats, shipped several cars while they were too green. In their hurry and impatience they had not given the crop time to mature. The consequence was that the cars arrived at destination with the oats badly heated and moldy, the consignees refused to receive them, and the shippers not only lost the product but had a "freight kick-back" besides.

Nor was that all the loss that a few more day's time for the crop to reach a greater stage of maturity would have prevented. The market having suffered from oats of poor quality from that section in the beginning of the season, the buyers were slow to purchase there so long as they could supply their needs elsewhere. The consequence was that the shippers from that section lost many times more than the premium could have possibly been on the few earlier cars had they been of ever so good quality. The confidence of the buyers had been shaken, the market was accordingly demoralized and the entire body of shippers suffered the evil consequences. In snatching at the shadows of early premiums they lost the substance of a steady, substantial market for the season.

But the advantage that accrues to those growers situated in the southernmost area of the country's vast small-grain belt through the earlier maturity of their crops is not to be ignored. If the first shipments of any new crop that go to market do not command a premium,—though they generally do—so long as it is the habit of the American farmer to dump the bulk of his harvest on the market immediately, a slump is inevitable as the bulk of the crop begins to move. Therefore, if an early sale is necessary, other things being equal, the earlier to market the better. But climatic conditions which give this advantage should be allowed to govern; it is unsafe to force immature oats on the market.

Oat farming affords numerous opportunities for community or neighborhood co-operation. Threshing time affords two. The old fashioned, neighborly way of "swapping work" will enable every man to work in the place he is best fitted to work in harvest field and in thresher crew, makes for better and steadier team work, and will hasten the harvest work for the entire community. And the other, which should be done in advance preparation for the harvest season, is the pooling of the purchase of grain bags. By pooling their needs and buying in car lots a very substantial saving in the cost of bags can be made. In times of high production costs and low selling price, every factor, that will contribute to a widening of the difference between these two items, is deserving of the most thoughtful consideration.

One of the best allies the bear speculators, who fatten on the farmers' oat crop in a financial way, have is the farmer's lack of facilities for taking care of his oats after they are threshed. Knowing that his crop is spread out on the ground, unprotected and deteriorating with each varying change of the weather, the buyer figures rightly that the farmer is compelled to sell or take a risk he through reduced operating expense. Reduced operating expense can come only through cheaper material, more efficient service and reduced salaries and wages. The roads will have to "can" some of their $150,000.00-a-year "efficiency experts," whose "brains" are valued too high, and exact an honest day's work and the earning in service of every penny received in pay at the "hands" of every employee from the general manager to the humblest freight rustler. A simple solution, isn't it? And this lesson in "efficiency" hasn't cost the roads a penny either!

does not wish to carry. Accordingly he takes advantage of this fact to buy them at the lowest possible figure. The best ally the farmer can have in the effort to get cost of production and a reasonable profit for his crop is a good granary where his crop can be safely stored and kept in a good sound, merchantable condition until he is ready to sell. These are fundamental facts; they can neither be denied or escaped. The effort to defy them is costing the farmers millions of dollars every year.

One of the most inexcusable wastes on the grain farm is the allowing of the land to lie idle after the crop has been harvested. Both for the sake of the crop it will yield and for the sake of maintaining soil fertility, wherever moisture conditions will permit, the grain stubble should be planted to some legume crop. Their deeper tap-roots will penetrate the subsoil to a greater depth than the roots of the grain, thereby rendering the subsoil more open and permeable to the delicate roots of less vigorous rooted plants, supply the soil with valuable stores of humus and atmospheric nitrogen, secured through the nodules on their roots, and render available for the needs of future crops vast quantities of the mineral plant foods of the soil. Do not let your grain stubble loaf; plant it to some legume crop suitable to your soil and climate.

THE "OLD RELIABLE" THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

White Haired Alabama Lady Says She Has Seen Medicines Come and Go But The "Old Reliable" Thedford's Black-Draught Came and Stayed.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said: "I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work. "Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals. Sour stomach, sick headache can be relieved by Thedford's Black-Draught. It aids digestion, assists the liver in throwing off its ties. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors." Thedford's Black-Draught is a household remedy with a record over seventy years of successful use. Every one occasionally needs it to help cleanse the system of impurities. Try Black-Draught. Insist upon Thedford's, the genuine. At all druggists.

RAD STRANGE NEWS TO TELL

Boy's Information Might Have Been Conveyed in More Intelligent Manner, However.

A boy, apparently very much agitated, rushed into a house and said to the lady:

"I don't want to alarm you, but I've got big news to tell you. The man sent me up from the livery stables to tell you—"

"Yes, yes! What is it?"

"Why, you know, your little boy, Aleck, what the man can't keep out of the livery stables round the corner?"

"Yes, yes! Well?"

"I told Aleck just now not to go into the stables among the horses, but he wouldn't mind me."

"Oh, dear! What has happened?"

"He said he wanted to see what a snake would do when you tickled its head with a straw."

"Oh, dear, dear!" gasped the lady, and clung to the chair for support.

"So Aleck got a straw," continued the informant, "crept up behind the wife, tickled him on the heels, and—"

The woman started for the door.

"And the sleepy old mule never lifted a hoof," called the visitor. "Never as much as switched its tail!"

GHOSTLY LOVERS ON WATCH

Legend of the City of Mexico That Makes Peculiar Appeal to Superstitious Residents.

One of the strange legends of the City of Mexico has to do with the Calle de los Parados (Street of the Two Ill-fates). According to the story there was a beautiful girl, Dona Maria Ysabel de Valdejo y Vexca, who lived on the street and was beloved by two men, one a young officer and the other a young merchant. After the custom of the land at that period (about 1650) they indicated their love by standing, one at each corner of the block, until the dawn appeared.

A plague fell upon the city about this time and the girl died without it becoming known to her lovers. She was taken out and buried by night, also unknown to the suitors. The next day they stood at their respective posts waiting in vain. The day after they stood and the day after that, week after week, month after month and year after year. They at last died, still on their posts, and their ghosts are said to still stand at night, cloaked and ghostly, in the darkest shadows of the streets.

Movie Tricks.

In some photoplay fire scenes the buildings are actually burned down, and sometimes small models are burned. Usually a convincing illusion is created by placing chemical preparations, known as "smoke pots," in concealed places in the building. Then by staining the film red the illusion is almost perfect.

Movies make it easy for bricks to form themselves into walls. Here is how it is done: First a brick wall is photographed. A man hidden behind the wall pulls down a brick at a time and throws it into a pile in front of the wall. Each time he does it it is photographed. The film is reversed when it is shown, so that the last picture appears first.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Evidently Was Indisposed.

Alfred was a boxer and his father was very anxious to learn the result of his son's first fight. He made the boy promise that a wire should reach him as soon as the contest was over.

"You won't disappoint me, Alfred?" he said.

"No, I promise," replied Alfred, and sallied forth to the fray.

The father waited impatiently until the telegraph boy appeared at last.

Eagerly he seized the envelope and tore it open.

It was signed "Bill Bruiser," and ran:

"Alfred would wire if he could. But he can't!"—London Ideas.

He Could Help Her Out.

A certain prominent movie star is a cautious person. She had to halt a taxicab one night last week to get to the theater in time for the show, and remembering the old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," she said to the driver:

"I have only 60 cents in my purse; these pearls about my neck are imitation and I have no other valuables. Little theater, please!"

The taxi man regarded her sympathetically a moment. "Listen, lady," he said, "if you need a dollar I kin loan you one."—New York Sun.

Hotels Shy of "13."

There are only two hotels in New York that have rooms numbered with 13. This in deference to superstition. Many of the tall hotels omit the thirteenth floor. A recent police court case in Harlem centered about the 13 superstition. A tenant, whose apartment was numbered 13, scratched the number off his door as often as the landlord painted it on. When he was ordered to stop he said to the judge:

"There, I told you that number was unlucky."

Unique.

"Yes, sir, we are proud of this election district. Why?"

"Oh, sure, I know! You have the oldest voter in the country, who has never failed to cast his ballot at any election since 1824, and who—"

"Not at all! Our district is unique and notable as being the only one in the nation which does not contain that medical veteran."

TO GET MASTERY OF GLOOM

Rainy Sunday Should Be Made Occasion for Improvement of the Mind by Reading.

"Sunday was a gloomy day, as far as the weather had to do with it, but where there's sunshine in your soul, never mind the weather," philosophized the Palmer Rustler in a recent issue.

Over these wide-extending plains shines one eternal day, where God in light forever reigns and scatters night away," sang the old hymnist. And why should the hymnist alone feel that way about it? Clouds are thin walls just above the earth. Beyond them is everlasting light. Gloom, which has an uncomfortable way of settling down like a fog upon our minds, is even thinner than the clouds, for the clouds are real, whereupon gloom is but a dark tinge of the imagination. Most people regard a rainy Sunday as the last word in temperamental depression but as a matter of fact, if a rainy Sunday is properly handled, adequately treated, courageously attacked, it can be made a fine day.

The thing to do with a rainy Sunday is to first conquer it, to let it know who is master, to cow and intimidate it. Then get a good book, or several books, curl up in a lighted nook, and read. There is a lot of good reading which even the best-read person in Texas hasn't yet got around to, therefore, the best read, as well as those of us who have read hardly anything, need never lack good reading matter. State Press doesn't believe in overdoing even as good a thing as reading. Some people read too much.

They spend so much time burrowing into printed pages they never get a chance to see the world, and it is the world, after all, and not books, which is most interesting and valuable to mankind. Sleeping off a rainy Sunday is the worst way to use it. Too much sleep conduces to stupidity, just as too much reading conduces to added brains. The way to get the best of a rainy day or a gloomy mind is to forget it; and the way to forget it is to become interested in something else.

Music Makes Life Brighter.

Seeking to relieve the strain of long hours of labor and the discordant sounds of constantly passing trains, a ticket seller in a subway station in Brooklyn has installed a phonograph in his little booth.

Since its installation the machine has not only made the life of the agent happier and brighter but has sent hundreds of passengers away to their offices in the mornings with a smile upon their faces.

The Interurban Rapid Transit company, on whose property this innovation has been made, has voiced no protest. Indeed, it is hinted among regular users of the subways that the phonograph may prove an asset to the Interborough in that it is likely to attract travelers who might otherwise take the Brooklyn Rapid Transit subway.

So Thoughtful of Him.

"Oh, ma!" ventured Hercules, the youngster. "Don't you want the backyard swept out?"

"No, that can wait until this evening."

"Haden't I better stay at home and do some work in the garden?"

"No, it looks like rain today."

"Don't you want me to clean out the paper cupboard?"

"No, you can do that on Saturday."

"But, mother, isn't there anything that I can do today?"

"Yes, you can go to school, and be quick about it, too."

One Just as Good.

A Scottish woman had had much trouble with her gardeners. She could not find one who was capable of keeping sober.

She appealed to her brother, who promised to do his best to help her. At last he announced that he had found just the man she needed.

"I'll only ask ye one question, James," said his sister. "Is he a teetotaler?"

"Weel," said James, deliberately, "he's no just what ye'd ca' a teetotaler, but he's a mon ye canna fill."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

MEN WEAR BENEDICT RINGS

According to New York Jeweler, the Custom Has Become Common, at Least in That City.

"There is certainly a grave misapprehension concerning men's wedding rings which I think should be cleared up at once," said a Broadway jeweler, according to the New York Sun. "I have found that people have a feeling that unless a man wears a wedding ring fashioned something like that worn by the woman, then something is wrong. In fact, I have learned that most people do not even know a man is married when he wears any kind of ring other than a wedding ring on his fourth finger, left hand."

"But that's a fact. Where the types of rings worn by brides are somewhat similar a man may wear anything from a signet to a real wedding ring on his left hand and still be in perfect propriety. As a matter of fact, most men dislike the plain wedding ring and prefer something like a signet. Brides aren't letting their husbands off without equality in rings as much as anything else nowadays and the bridegrooms are wearing all kinds to satisfy their wives' desire in the matter."

NEW OMAR LIFTS HIS VOICE

Arizona Poet, However, Strikes Different Note From That Struck by the Great Persian.

Omar Khayyam said that he could dine on a loaf of bread and a jug of wine; with Her beside him and feel content in the wilderness—but he only meant that he liked the desert and his old tin Lizzie, and the crooked roads that make you dizzy, that start any place and lead nowhere, and just keep going and never care.

He liked the mesquite and the greasewood smell and the long hot days that feel like h—; the red sunsets and the cool moonlight and the soft, sweet air of the desert night—for Omar Khayyam was a wonderful man, who lived his life on an easy plan, with his girls and his wine and a big silk tent—My, oh, my! What a life he spent. . . . The desert is here like it always was—but you can't Khayyam any more, because in these dry days when even home brew is on the list of the things taboo, old Omar Khayyam and his jug of juice would soon get locked in the calaboose. —Salome (Ariz.) Abandoning Totem Poles.

Alaska is losing its totem poles. Because of the gradual decline in observance of native customs, totem poles are no longer erected, and the elements are wearing down those remaining.

The largest collection of totems in the North, it is said, is to be found in the abandoned Indian village of Old Kassan, 25 miles from Ketchikan. The village was deserted several years ago, after a disastrous fire, the natives moving to New Kassan.

Old Kassan's totems are of many sizes and descriptions. Some are of imposing proportions, with the four distinct emblems of the bear, the crow, the toad and the eagle represented. The poles are carved, from base to pinnacle, with gorgeous language. The totems are carved on cedar, which is slow in perishing.

Side Comment.

Little Belle's Sunday school teacher was to be married. A gift beautiful enough to express the love and admiration of the whole family was bought, and little Belle was permitted to carry the treasure to the home. When the bride-to-be herself opened the door Belle said in her sweetest tone:

"Miss Ann, mother sent this to you with our love." And then, half under her breath, exclaimed: "I heard her tell papa last night she hoped you'd like it; goodness knows 'tis better than anything we have in our house!" —Exchange.
